Hello Woodsworth Office Staff,

I neglected to let you know that I have great difficulty using the phone. I recently learned that this is common in the autistic community. ...I apologize for being remiss in mentioning this in my previous communications.

Today, at 2:35pm, I received a phone message from [REDACTED] in our Maintenance Department. [REDACTED] seemed friendly, but I couldn't understand a lot of what [REDACTED] said.

I think that I heard [REDACTED] say something similar to "The office gave me your request to check the [REDACTED] [REDACTED]"

I'd like to make clear the fact that I did not submit such a request.

I did request that you let me know your thoughts on the matter. I've made this request about five times. I haven't heard back.

I did request that you let me know if you've been receiving my emails. I've made this request a few times. I haven't heard back.

I did request that you let me know if you've received my hard-copy communications that I delivered to the Office Mailbox. I've made this request a couple of times. I haven't heard back.

Again, I have not requested that the [REDACTED] or any other [REDACTED] be checked.

As you might know, I am autistic, and I welcome constructive criticism about my communications. If I ever write to you something that is weird or wrong, please do let me know. I'm more than happy to learn.

Thanks,

:) Michael

Hello Woodsworth Office Staff,

I noticed that our [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

I believe that this is a Security Issue.

As a person with autism, I ask that you let me know if I am communicating in a way that is weird or wrong.

Also, I think that there might be something wrong with my email system. Could you please let me know if you do or do not receive a hard copy of this email, as well as a hard copy of the attached letter, dated Sep. 1, 2026, that I delivered to the Office Mailbox in the Lobby? As of today, I will have delivered a hard copy of this letter (attached to this email) twice.

Thanks,

:) Michael
